Ground Plaster.

I HAVE on hand a large quantity of GROUND PLASTER in barrels and in bulk, which I will sell low.
March 15 A. P. GOVER.

Notice,

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE.
Fairfax Court-House, Va

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES.

No. III.

The court has said, and I repeat it, that the constitution and laws of the United States abound with evidence demonstrating the error of this construction. I have already stated some instances in which this rule must be discarded; and I will now refer to others which were selected by the court, the aptness of which Amphyction denies.

I will pass over the acts requiring an oath of office, because Amphyction seems half disposed to admit there is something in that particular example, and will proceed to some of those which he pronounces totally inapplicable.

Congress possesses power "to establish post offices and post roads." Amphyction says that the right to carry the mail, and to punish those who rob it, are necessary incidents to this power. I admit it. But who does not perceive that, in making this assertion, he abandons his own interpretation of the word "necessary" and adopts that of the supreme court? Let us apply his rule to the case. Let us suppose a bill before congress to punish those who rob the mail. The inquiry is, he says: "does the constitution expressly grant the power?" The answer must be in the negative. There is no express power to carry the mail, nor to punish those who rob it. The member is next to ask: "Is this law one without which the power cannot be executed?" That is, can a post office and a post road be established, without an act of congress for the punishment of those who rob the mail? The plain common sense of every man will answer this question in the affirmative. These powers were divided under the confederation. Then the conclusion of the member must be, this right to punish those who rob the mail "is a power reserved to the states, or to the people, and we may not use the means, nor pass the law. Then the state legislature may pass laws to punish those who rob the mail, but congress cannot. Post offices and post roads may be established without such a law, and therefore the power to pass it is reserved to the states." Adopt the construction of Amphyction, and this conclusion is inevitable.

Let the question be on the right of Congress to pass an act for the punishment of those who falsify a record.

The power is to ordain and establish inferior courts, the judges of which shall hold their offices during good behaviour, and receive as a compensation, salaries which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office. The second section defines the extent of the judicial power.

Is a law to punish those who falsify a record, one without which a court cannot be establised, or one without which a court cannot exercise its functions? We know that under the confederation congress had the power to establish, and did establish certain courts, and had not the power to pass laws for the punishment of those who should falsify its records. Unquestionably such a law is "needful," "requisite," "essential" "conducive to" the due administration of justice: but no man can say, it is one without which courts cannot decide causes, or without which it is physically impossible for them to perform their functions. According to the rule of Amphyction then, such a law cannot be enacted by congress, but may be enacted by the state legislatures.

It would be tedious to go through all the examples put by the supreme court.—They are all of the same character, and show, conclusively, that the principles maintained by the counsel for the state of Maryland, and by Amphyction would, essentially change the constitution, render the government of the union incompetent to the objects for which it was instituted, and place all its powers under the control of the state legislatures. It would, in a great measure, reinstate the old confederation.

It cannot escape any attentive observer that Amphyction's strictures on the opinion of the supreme court, are founded on a total and obvious perversion of the plain meaning of that opinion, as well as on a misconstruction of the constitution. He occasionally substitutes words not used by the court, and employs others, neither in the connexion, nor in the sense, in which they are employed by the court, so as to ascribe to the opinion sentiments which it does not merely not contain, but which it excludes. The court does not say that the word "necessary" means whatever may be 'convenient,' or 'useful.' And when it uses "conducive to," that word is associated with others, plainly showing that no remote, no distant conduciveness to the object, is in the mind of the court.

With as little remorse as the Procrustes of ancient fable stretched and lopped limbs in order to fit travellers to his bed does Amphyction extend and contract the meaning of words in the constitution, and in the opinion of the court, in order to accommodate those papers to his strictures. Thus, he says, if Congress should impose a tax on Land, "it would be extremely convenient, and a very appropriate measure, and very conducive to their purpose of collecting this tax speedily, and promptly, if the state governments could be prohibited during the same year from laying and collecting a land tax. Were they to pass such a law, and thereby directly encroach on one of the most undoubted rights of the states, the present liberal and sweeping construction of theclause by the supreme court would justify the measure."

No, I deny that a law prohibiting the state legislatures from imposing a land tax would be an "appropriate" means, or any means whatever, to be employed in collecting the tax of the United States. It is not an instrument to be so employed. It is not a means "plainly adapted," or "conducive to" the end. The passage of such an act would be an attempt on the part of Congress, under the pretext of executing its powers, to pass laws for the accomplishment of objects not intrusted to the government." So far is the construction given to this clause by the supreme court from being so "liberal and sweeping" as to "justify the measure" that the opinion expressly rejects it. Let its language be quoted.—"That the power of taxation is one of vital importance; that it is retained by the states; that it is to be concurrently exercised by the two governments, are truths, says the opinion, which have never been denied." The court afterwards quotes a passage from the Federalist in which this construction is urged vehemently, as an objection to the constitution itself, and obviously approves the argument against it.

Many laborious criticisms would be avoided, if those who are disposed to condemn a paper, would take the trouble to read, with a disposition to understand, it.

I shall not notice the various imaginary and lose opinions which Amphyction has collected, or suggested, because they are not imputable to the supreme court. I content myself with exposing some of his errors in construing the constitution, and in ascribing to the opinion he condemns, doctrines which it does not contain.

I cannot however avoid remarking that Amphyction himself, as soon as he has closed his stricture on the supreme court, seems to desert his own construction and take up their's. "I think it clear," he says, "that the intention of the constitution was to confer on Congress the power of resorting to such means as are incidental to the to such means as directly and necessarily tend to produce the desired effect."

How much more, let me ask, has been said by the supreme court? That court has said: "Let the end be legitimate, let it be within the scope of the constitution, and all means which are appropriate, which are plainly adapted to that end, which are not prohibited," "are constitutional." The word "appropriate," if Johnson be authority, means "peculiar," consigned to some particular use or person,"—"belonging peculiarly."

Let the constructive words used by the supreme court, in this their acknowledged sense, be applied to any of the powers of Congress. Take for example that of raising armies. The court has said that "all means which are appropriate," that is "all means which are peculiar to raising armies, which are "consigned to that particular use," which "belong peculiarly" to it, all means which are, "plainly adapted" to the end, are constitutional.

If Amphyction is better pleased with his own language, I shall not contest its right to the preference; but what essential difference is there between 'means which directly and necessarily tend to produce the desired effect." and means which "belong peculiarly" to the production of that effect? I acknowledge that I perceive none. Means which are "appropriate," which are "plainly adapted" to the end, must "directly and necessarily tend to produce" it. The difference however between these means, and those without which the effect cannot be produced, must be discerned by the most careless observer.

Let us apply these different definitions of the words, to any the most common affairs of human life. A, leases to B, a mill for a number of years on a contract that A shall receive half the profits, and shall pay half the expenses of all the machinery which B may erect therein, and which shall be "necessary and proper" for the manufacture of flour. Pending this lease, the elevator and hopper boy are invented, and applied, with great advantage, to the manufacture of flour. B erects them in his mill A is very well satisfied with receiving the increased profits, but is unwilling to pay half the expense of the machinery, because as he alleges, it was not "necessary" to the manufacture of flour. All will admit that this machinery is "appropriate, and plainly adapted to the end;" or in the words of Amphyction, that it "directly and necessarily tends to produce the desired effect."—But none can think it so indispensably necessary that the end cannot be produced without it. The end was produced, flour was manufactured, before the elevator and hopper boy were invented.

The same may be observed of the cotton machine of the south, of the use of Gypsum on a farm, of many things which occur in the ordinary transactions of human life.

It will be readily perceived in every case, that this rule of construction, which seems to have escaped Amphyction in a moment when the particular object of his essay was out of view, and that contained in the opinion he condemns, are precisely the same, and are both in direct opposition to that other restricted rule by which he tries the reasoning of the Supreme Court.

If, as I think all will admit, that construction of the words in which Amphyction and the court concur, furnish the true rule of construing the words "necessary and proper" in a contract between man and man, how much more certainly must it be the true rule for construing a constitution—an instrument the nature of which excludes the possibility of inserting in it an enumeration of the means of executing its specific powers. If this rule be applicable to the relations between individuals, how much more applicable must it be to the relations between the people and their representatives, who are elected for the very purpose of selecting the best means of executing the powers of the government they are chosen to administer.

I have confined my observations to the reasoning of the Supreme Court, and have taken no notice of the conclusion drawn from it, because the essays I am reviewing make no objections to the latter, but denounce the former as false and dangerous. I think, on the contrary, I hazard nothing when I assert that the reasoning is less doubtful than the conclusion. I myself concur in the conclusion; but I do not fear contradiction from any fair minded and intelligent man when I say that the principles laid down by the court for the construction of the constitution may all be sound, and yet the act for incorporating the bank be unconstitutional. But if the act be constitutional, the principles laid down by the court must be sound. I defy Amphyction, I defy any man, to furnish an argument which shall, at the same time, prove the bank to be constitutional, and the reasoning of the court to be erroneous. Why then is Amphyction so delicate on the constitutionality of the law, while he is vehement and strenuous in his exertions to rouse the nation against the court? If we do not account for this by saying that the court is less popular, and therefore more vulnerable, than the executive and the legislature, how shall we account for it?

Before I conclude let me ask this gentleman and those who think with him, what train of reasoning would have satisfied him and them? The court did not volunteer in this business. The question was brought before them, and they could not escape it. What course then does Amphyction think they ought to have adopted? Does he think they ought to have declared the law unconstitutional and void? He does not say so; and we are not permitted to draw this inference from what he does say. After lamenting that seriatim opinions were not delivered, he supposes what might have been the opinions of judges concurring in the decision, but dissenting from the reasoning, delivered by the Chief Justice.—"Some of them," he says, "may have believed that it was for congress to have judged of that necessity and propriety, and having exercised their undoubted functions in so deciding, that it was not consistent with judicial modesty to say there was no such necessity, and thus to arrogate to themselves a right of putting their veto upon a law."

Again, he says: "It may however be asked, whether I can at this day pretend to argue against the constitutionality of a bank established by congress? In answer, I reply that it is not my intention by these remarks to bring that subject into discussion. I am willing to acquiesce in this particular case, so long as the charter continues without being violated—because it has been repeatedly argued before congress, and not only in 1791, but in 1815, was solemnly decided in favor of the measure."

Let us suppose that the court had supported its decision by the reasoning which Amphyction conjectures may have influenced some of the judges whom he does not appear inclined to censure, or by that which he adopts for himself. Suppose the court had said: "Congress has judged of the necessity and propriety of this measure, and having exercised their undoubted functions in so deciding, it is not consistent with judicial modesty to say theire is no such necessity, and thus toarrogate to ourselves the right of putting our veto upon a law."

Or suppose the court, after hearing a most elaborate and able argument on the constitutionality of the law, had said, "It is not our intention to bring that subject into discussion. We are willing to acquiesce in this particular case so long as the charter continues without being violated; because it has been repeatedly argued before congress, and not only in 1791, but in 1815, was solemnly decided against the measure."

Would this reasoning have satisfied? or ought it to have satisfied the publick?—Would Amphyction himself be content with the declaration of the supreme court, that on any question concerning the constitutionality of an act, it is not enough to say, "it is not consistent with judicial modesty" to contradict the opinion of Congress, and "thus to arrogate to themselves the right of putting their veto upon a law" or that "they are willing to acquiesce" in the particular act, because it has been particularly argued before Congress, and not only in 1791, but in 1815," or at some other time since 1801, "was solemnly decided in favor of the measure?"

But if, as we must believe was the fact in this case, because it was so stated by the judges, the court should be "unanimously and decidedly of opinion that the law is constitutional," would it comport with their honor, with their duty, or with truth to insinuate an opinion that congress had violated the constitution? If it would not, then was it incumbent on the court in this case, to pursue, not the course marked out by Amphyction but that which he censures. It was incumbent on them to state their real opinion and their reasons for it. Those reasons, I am persuaded, require only to be read with fairness and with attention to be approved.

A FRIEND TO THE UNION.

It is probable that, before Mr. Onis reaches Madrid, our treaty with Spain will be ratified. We say it is probable, because there is a possibility that it may not, particularly when we recollect how long the convention, ratified last autumn, and which will now be merged in this more comprehensive treaty, was held in suspense by the Spanish government. We should not, however, have seriously entertained an idea of the possibility of its not being ratified, if our attention had not been caught by the following paragraph, which, considering the scource whence it comes, (from the pe of a member of the senate of the United States)—is entitled to more respect than is ordinarily paid to newspaper speculations. We certainly hope the treaty will be ratified; though, should it not, there are some very respectable citizens who would be gratified at the failure. From certain essays we have seen in the western papers, there are not a few in that section of the country, who think our boundaries are not sufficiently extended towards Mexico.—Our views are not quite so expanded. We are content with the secure possession of what we have, and withal consider our present limits comprehensive enough for happiness. A wider range would but enlarge the field for speculation, which, God knows, is already ample enough.

TREATY WITH SPAIN.

We perceive that it is generally considered as unquestionable that the government of Spain will promptly ratify the treaty concluded by its minister here: yet, we acknowledge this point appears to us very doubtful. That government has not evinced much disposition to do us justice, nor great anxiety to secure our good will. The Convention formed at Madrid in 1802, was not ratified by that court until 1818. As substantial reasons may be assigned for refusing or neglecting to ratify the treaty, as the convention; and if her statesmen are at any loss for arguments to justify such refusal or neglect, they may possibly derive assistance from the speeches, reports, and publications of some of ours. That government may also disavow the authority of Don Onis to form the treaty, as the British government once did the authority of Erskine to make the arrangement by which the embargo was raised, and the mouths of starving millions filled in England. The Don himself has gone home, and whether to advise the ratification or rejection of the treaty, is a subject of conjecture. The British government, too, if we may judge from the tenor and temper of their papers, or indulge an opinion as to the extent of their apprehensions for the safety of their colonies and commerce, should Florida pass into our hands, or the height of their jealousy of the increasing wealth, strength and consequence of the United States—the British government, we say, may not yield their assent to the cession of the Floridas to us, unless Cuba is surrendered to them. This Spain justly deems the brightest jewel in her crown, and will part with only in the last extremity. Yet Spain would greatly dread a rupture with Britain, whose interest already prompts her to the aid of the patriots, and whose arms could, in one campaign, effect their independence, and assure their gratitude. On the whole, we shall not be surprized should the ratification of the treaty be suspended until the result of the pending enterprize is known; and, should that prove even partially successful, we shall as little wonder at its total rejection.

New-York, May 14.

SHIPWRECKS.

The New-London Gazette, Wednesday) mentions that the British Packet Princess Charlotte, captain White, bound from Kingston, Jamaica, to Falmouth, England, was wrecked on the Hogsties, N. W. Key, on the 4th April. She had on board about 35,000 dollars in specie, of which nine boxes of dollars were lost. The residue of the spirit together with the rigging were saved. The captain, crew and passengers were conveyed to Crooked Island by a New-Providence wrecker—at which place Mr. Titley, one of the passengers, and three seamen embarked in the schnr. Belluga, from Kennebunk—and off Block Island they fell in with a boat which landed them at New-London.

By the Quebec papers we learn, that the British ship Heart of Oak, Captain Nicholson, bound from London to Quebec, was lost in the ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, on the 24th of April. The captain and crew were saved.

FROM ENGLAND.

Boston, May 11.

By the brig William Henry, which arrived at this port yesterday, a Bristol paper of the 5th ult. is received.

The examination respecting the affairs of the Bank of England, made by a secret committee of the House of Commons, had been completed; the report was preparing, and was expected with much anxiety. The Committee of the House of Lords had not advanced so far.

A misunderstanding has occurred between the Courts of Berlin and Hesse Cassel; and their respective ambassadors have been recalled.

The new British parliament is said to be composed of 398 ministerialists, 247 anti's, and 12 epicenes.

The sum demanded in England for the services of the year, will probably be 66,000,000l. which, supposing the population of the United kingdom to 15,000,000, and the number of houses 6,000,000, produces a taxation of 4l. 10s. upon every man, woman and child, and of 22l. upon every house-keeper.

A dispute has occurred between Edward Pothero, esq. and the Electors of Bristol, respecting the expenses of an unsuccessful attempt to elect him to parliament. He contends that they agreed to pay those expenses, and yet have allowed a part of them to fall on him—and that he has since been taxed with 3,300 dollars postage of double letters resenting his complaints.

Lord Stewart, (brother to Lord Castlereagh) was married to Lady Frances Vane Tempest, the rich heiress, on the 3d of April. The lady being a ward of Chancery, there had been a very long legal investigation to decide whether the match was a proper one.

The Bonapartean general Gourgaud, has improved the facility of application to the British parliament, by petitioning against the manner of his arrest, the seizure of his papers, &c. It is said he served Louis when Napolean was at Elba.

Great numbers of woollen and cotton weavers are said to be out of employ in England, on account of the diminished demand for articles of their manufacture—and fears are entertained for the public peace but who can they blame?—government cannot compel foreigners to buy their goods.

A great disturbance occurred at the Drury Lane Theatre on the 3d of April, on the performance of a new tragedy, called the Italians, by Mr. Burke. After the performance of two scenes, without a word being heard, the play was recommenced; but without success—and the call was that it should be withdrawn. A quarrel had occurred between Mr. Kean and the author respecting this production.

Vegetation was forward and promising in England the beginning of April.

FROM INDIA.

By the brig Cherub, at Boston, Calcutpapers to the 30th Dec. are receceived at the Palladium Office.

Mention is made of an agreement between the Pacha of Egypt, and Messrs. Lee and Buckingham for promoting a trade to India, by the Isthumus of Suez. There has lately been considerable trade to India by way of Alexandria, Cario, &c. Mr. Lee is, we believe, the British Consul at Cairo.

The British authorities in India have induced the enlightened Hindoos to undertake to examine the Sanskrit authorities, with a hope of finding some reason to shew that widows should not burn themselves with the bodies of their deceased husbands.

An inconsideracle warfare is still carried on in the Interior of India against the forces of some of the inferior Indian Rulers.

Sir David Ochterlony is appointed President at Delhi.

Bombay, Dec. 31.

His Majesty's ship Eden, who arrived here the other day, is one of the ships that has been completely cured of the dry rot by having been sunk.

Ship Braganza, from New-York, ar. at Bombay about Dec. 10.

"We, the subscribers, being fully sensible of the importance of military discipline, and preferring a select association to the mixt enrolment in the common battalion companies, do hereby agree to form ourselves into a UNIFORM COMPANY, to be denominated ——————. The uniform to be that which the law prescribes, and the officers to be elected by the company."

The advantages resulting to the members of such an association are obvious.—The uniform will not be an expense, as in other companies, it being that which the militia law requires every individual to appear in, which requisition will be rigidly enforced hereafter by courts martial. The number will be limited to 64, and those desirous of becoming members should enrol themselves immediately. 3t May 18

Addressed to the French Refugees from St. Domingo.

HIS Most Christian Majesty having taken into consideration the hard condition of some of the French refugees from St. Domingo, who have retired into he United States, and whose families or pecuniary affairs recal them to France, and who seem to be without the means of providing for their own passage, has pleased to approve that a man-of-war shall land at New-York the last of June next, to carry to France such of them as may be disposed to return to their native country.

As this favor has been requested to alleviate honorable misfortunes, it is to turn only to the advantage of the unfortunate; therefore, the choice will only fall on the refugees whose situation will be acknowledged to be the most unhappy, and who, besides, will find it beneficial and urgent to return immediately to France.

The Minister of H. M. C. M. wishing to prevent, on this subject, the slightest error, invites the said French persons, who have either applied to him already, or, thinking themselves entitled to enjoy such benefit, would take advantage of it, to cause their requests to be directed to him through the agency of the consuls and vice consuls of France residing in their districts.

The consular agents will communicate to those obtaining a passage certain directions which they ought to follow, as the man-of war of H. M. C. M. is to stop but a few days in the port of New-York.

The editors of the newspapers to which the Minister of France is a subscriber, will be pleased to insert the foregoing notice in their papers two or three times, in order that said French families may be acquainted with it.

Penmanship.

A PRACTICAL, easy running hand warranted, and no compensation received except there is an improvent made to the utmost satisfaction of the young ladies and gentlemen who attend.

Those disposed may try the experiment during 12 hours, at the end of which time, if their improvement does not meet their approbation, they may withdraw and no charge made. And further, if those scholars who continue on through the 16 lessons, do not in their own estimation, or in the estimation of their parents or guardians, make more improvement than is generally made in two years, in the old way of teaching, it is requested that no one pay any thing.

During the 16 lessons are taught the small running hand, secretary and Italian hand, the last of which is particularly fashionable for young ladies.

The teacher having had nearly eight years experience at various seminaries of learning and in the principal cities and towns in the United States, offers the advantage of this long experience to all those who apply, during the present week, after which none can be received.

Those disposed to engage, may apply at the writing room, Washington-street, two doors north of King-street, where may be seen specimens of hand writing, acquired in less than one week. Application must be made during the present week—after which not one scholar will be received.

A class of young ladies may attend at any separate hours, either in the morning or evening; and also young ladies who prefer it may take lessons at home.

As this plan of writing embraces the two essential qualities of a good penman, ease and elegance; and as the time necessary to acquire it is merely nothing, it is believed, if its real utility were fully known, not one person of any age, who has the least wish of improving his hand writing, would hesitate to try the experiment. Perhaps this opportunity may not offer again in Alexandria for many years.

Public Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust from Daniel McPherson and wife to the subscriber to secure to the Mechanics' Bank of Alexandria the payment of a debt due from John McPherson and Son, will be sold at public sale on the premises, on THURSDAY, the 10th day of June next, a certain tract of land, known by the name of ROUND-HILL, in the county of Fairfax, lying on both sides of the Colchester road, adjoining the lands of George Triplett, Dr. Richard Mason, and others, containing 164¼ acres, be the same more or less. This land is handsomely situated, and has lately received considerable improvements. Few farms of its size in the county, perhaps, present higher inducements to a tasteful proprietor.

The terms are one-fourth cash, and the remainder in three equal instalments at 12, 18 and 24 months, with interest from the day of sale. W. VEITCH, Trustee.

Public Sale.

ON the 9th DAY of JULY next, at 12 o'clock of that day, by virtue of a deed of trust, we will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the premises, that very valuable tract of land in Fairfax county, near Holmes's Run, and about four miles from Alexandria, generally known by the name of containing about 115 acres. This land is about one half in wood—the balance cleared, and in cultivation, with convenient buildings on it, and excellent water near them. A considerable proportion of the open land is fertile, and well calculated for timothy meadows.

The sum of $2,254 77 cts will be required to be paid in cash; for the residue a credit of twelve months will be given from the day of sale, the purchaser paying interest thereon, and giving satisfactory security for the punctual payment thereof. A conveyance will be made when the purchase money and interest is all paid up. If the terms of the sale should not be complied with by the purchaser, the premises will be immediately re-sold to the highest bidder, at the risque of the person to whom it shall have been struck off; and the same course will be repeated until an effectual sale shall have taken place.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—10 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

For Sale or Rent,

And possession given immediately,

Mount Eagle, with 35 to 40 acres of land, enclosed with a good post and rail fence, situate in Fairfax co. Va. and within a short mile of Alexandria. It commands a fine view of that town, the city of Washington, and a part of Georgetown—also of the river Potomac and of the country around. The improvements are, a handsome and convenient frame dwelling house, with kitchen wash house and pantry, under the same roof—smoke house, stable and carriage house, with a never failing spring of good water.

If desirable to a purchaser, I will add a part of the Spring Bank Tract, contiguous to it, son the west side of the Mount Vernon Road, containing 65 to 70 acres, part of which is in wood and the remainder cleared, with a good post and rail fence.

Also, for sale or rent—my three story brick ware-house on King street, next door to M. T. Stribling's flour warehouse.

Also for sale,

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on.

Blacking for Boots & Shoes,

Superior to any ever offered to the public.

ROBERT COCHRAN,

No. 48, North Fourth-street, next door to the Green Tree Inn, Philadelphia.

WITH confidence offers to the public, his superior Portable and Liquid blacking, so much admired and approved of, which is manufactured by himself only.

This blacking possesses every desirable quality, being of an oily nature, it preserves the leather perfectly soft to the last, and keeps it from cracking—it is a jet black, affords a most superiative polish, entirely free from any offensive smell, and so clean as not to soil the whitest muslin or any other substance it may chance to run against, and will keep in any climate—it has a peculiar advantage in being put up in a portable manner, and may be packed without possibility of risque, with the nicest clothes or goods. The Portable Blacking is much adapted for gentlemen residing or travelling in the country, where materials for making Blacking is not to had, and as for cheapness and elegance, far exceeds any ever imported or manufactured in the union. Where is sold as above, the beautiful Chinese Liquid Blacking, for ladies morocco boots and shoes, which makes the oldest morocco boots or shoes appear the same as when new. Sold wholesale at the manufactory, as above.

N. B. Please observe that each bottle it sealed and signed by the proprietor, to prevent spurious impressions being imposed on the public.

It may be had at the following places in Alexandria.——Dr. Stabler and Richard Woods on Fairfax street,—Dr. Semmes, & Dr. Little's apothecary shops, on King-street.—Isaac Entwisles, shoe factory, and Thomas Mount's factory & Hardware store on King-street. sw2m March 20

Charlotte Hall School.

THE board of trustees for Charlotte Hall school deem it their duty to announce to the public, the present flourishing condition of this institution. Since the introduction of the present professors, the school has rapidly progressed in the public estimation.

When Philip Briscoe, esq. was called to assume the office of Principal, there were but 27 pupils. The liberality of the State Legislature of 1817, enabled the trustees to retain his services and those of Mr. Miltimore for the classical department—the Reverend Mr. Neale H. Shaw has also been retained as professor of mathematicks, and he is aided in that department by Mr. Sweetsee, a gentleman in high estimation as a professor. Under the management of these gentlemen the school has now 95 boys; and very many applications have already been made for entrance and board. Heretofore a portion of the boys have been compelled to board at the neighboring houses at too great a distance from the school; the trustees are now making arrangements which will enable fifty boys more to be accommodated immediately at the school; so that at all times the Principal will be enabled to exercise a general superintendance over their moral deportment (to the corruption of which, the boys in this retired village have but few temptations). The board will remark to those who are unacquainted with this place, that no part of Maryland is more distinguished for its general healthiness. The price of board is only 100 dollars a year. The tuition is now but 28 dollars a year! It will be raised after August to 32 dollars—a price much lower, however, than any of the public schools of our state.

It is intended then by the trustees to select four boys (of poor and indigent parents) of promise, and to board, clothe, and educate them entirely at the expense of the institution, and afterwards to labor to procure them that station to which their talents and conduct may entitle them.

Signed, by order,

NEALE H. SHAW, Reg'r.
